

Junior & Intermediate Sustainability Advisor Roles

Overview

EnviroStrat is a sustainability and natural resource sector advisor and an impact investment project developer with a unique profile and service offering in the market. Our work is multi-disciplinary, spanning applied science, engineering, economics, public policy and investment in the marine, freshwater, agri, energy, waste and climate sectors.

We are growing and looking for new talent to complement our Auckland-based team. This is a great opportunity if you are creative, inquisitive, technically strong and passionate about transformative solutions for our country and its economy. The people we seek have a demonstrated ability to work on multiple tasks or projects, are comfortable presenting to external audiences and demonstrate initiative and a can-do attitude.

What will the roles do

You will work within multi-disciplinary teams and lead or contribute to:

- Development and implementation of nature- and market-based solutions to natural resource management and climate adaptation in New Zealand and internationally.
- Development (and communication) of knowledge and decision-making tools to assist EnviroStrat's clients to respond to policy and market drivers and stakeholder expectations.
- Policy analysis and transition strategies to low-carbon sustainability solutions in private and public sectors, including foresight and trend identification and communication.
- Establish and grow relationships with iwi and key decision-makers in government and business.

What we are looking for

- Evidence of intellectual curiosity, the ability to work across different disciplines and sectors and in small teams creating and delivering projects for our clients.
- You possess excellent communication and inter-personal skills, applied research, technical and business writing and have a track record of project management and delivery.
- You will have a robust grounding in technical or strategic solutions in a sustainability context and working experience of up to 2-5 years (junior roles) and 5-8 years (intermediate roles). We are agnostic about your disciplinary background or education but you must be confident working with subject matter experts both inside EnviroStrat and externally.
- You have an understanding of the New Zealand environmental policy context and market drivers, and ideally knowledge of environmental markets, nature-based solutions and are cognisant of the role of finance and investment in achieving environmental impact.
- Experience and knowledge of Te Ao Māori and the Treaty of Waitangi is highly desirable.
- Whilst we are sector-agnostic, familiarity with the key sectors in which we work is important and a willingness to learn new subject matter is essential.

You must be a NZ citizen or resident.

All qualified talent will be considered for employment without regard to race, colour, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin or disability.

If you are interested, please email your covering letter and resume to enquiries@envirostrat.co.nz